* Republican

Judicial Candidates.

Republicans should familiarize themselves with the names of Republican judicial candidates, both state and local, as their names will go on a separate ballot. Following are the names of the judicial candidates:

Chief Justice—Frank Taggart, Wooster.

Judges of Supreme Court—Thomas A. Jones, Jackson; Edward S. Matthias, Van Wert.

(Vote for two)

If all the above candidates are elected there will be three Republicans and three Democrats on the Supreme Bench.

Judge Court of Appeals—James I. Allread, Columbus.

Judge Common Pleas Court—W. W. Teegarden, Greenville.

Probate Judge—Thos. Eubank, New Madison.

Minus the brewers and saloonkeepers, where would Governor Cox's strength be as a candidate?

The funniest man alive is Tim Hogan, trying to make himself believe that he is in the running for the senatorship.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer—the leading Democratic paper of northern Ohio, opposes the brewers' "wet" amendment. This is practically a repudiation of Gov. Cox.

Candidate Garfield's political gumption can be measured by his parrot-like cries that the Republican party will run third. His campaign has passed even being a joke.

Governor Cox, the people of Ohio want to know whether you support the "wet" or "dry" amendment. Does your compact with the brewers require that you keep a padlock on your mouth?

DANGER

DON'T BE FOOLED

By the saloon cry for "Home Rule." We have more Home Rule now than the Brewers' Home Rule Amendment will give us. That Home Rule Amendment will

DESTROY HOME RULE

It proposes to turn the State of Ohio over to the Brewery Combine and the Whiskey Trust, and tie the hands of the State Legislature so they

Cannot Make Any Laws

To restrict or control the traffic.

Here It Is---Read It Carefully

The True Text of the Proposed Constitutional Amendment Initiated by the Ohio Home Rule Association to be voted on Nov. 3, 1914:

Article XV, Section 9a—No law shall be passed or be in effect prohibiting the sale, furnishing or giving away of intoxicating liquors operative in a subdivision of the state upon the option of the electors thereof, or upon any other contingency, which has force within a territory larger than a municipal corporation or a township outside of municipal corporations therein. All laws in contravention of the foregoing are hereby repealed.

Nor shall any law HEREFTER be passed prohibiting the sale, furnishing or giving away of intoxicating liquors throughout the state at large.

NOTICE THAT LAST SENTENCE

"Nor shall any law hereafter be passed prohibiting etc. Will Ohio give free reign to the saloon and tie the hands of the Legislature?"

NEVER!

HON. FRANK B. WILLIS

Republican Candidate for Governor.

FRANK B. WILLIS is recognized as one of the ablest and cleanest men in public life today. He is serving his second term in congress, where he has made an excellent record for proficiency, industry, honesty and integrity.

Mr. Willis is a self-made man and has every reason to feel proud of the job. He was born and reared on a farm, where he performed as hard labor as any farmer's boy. After finishing his studies in the country schools he entered Ada college from which institution he graduated with honor and then became a member of the faculty of that institution. He is aged 42, is married and has a daughter. He served two terms in the Ohio general assembly as a member of the house of representatives and was one of the leaders in that body. His ability, industry, clear vision and honorable methods soon attracted the attention of his colleagues in the Ohio general assembly, and the statesmanship there displayed was a potent force in his nomination and election to congress for two terms.

Mr. Willis' private life is without a stain; his character is as clean as a hound's tooth. Moreover, Mr. Willis has a most pleasing personality, is genial and affable in his disposition and has the faculty, in a marked degree, of making friends wherever he goes.

WARREN G. HARDING

Republican Candidate for United States Senator.

WARREN G. HARDING was born in Corsica, Morrow county, Ohio, November 2, 1865. He is the son of Dr. George Tyrone and Phoebe (Dickerson) Harding. He went to Marion county with his parents in 1871. He received his education in the public schools and through a scientific course in Ohio Central college, which college no longer exists. After leaving college he began the study of law, but was obliged to abandon this course on account of the lack of funds. He then entered the newspaper work, and was successful to such an extent that in 1884 he became owner of the Marion Star, which newspaper is, however, now corporate, 25 per cent of the stock being owned by employees.

Mr. Harding was elected to the Ohio state senate from the thirteenth district in 1899, and was re-elected to the same office in 1901. In 1903 he was elected Lieutenant governor of Ohio, but lost in his contest for the governorship in 1910.

He was joined in marriage with Miss Florence Kling, daughter of the late A. H. Kling, in 1891. They have no children.

Mr. Harding is a member and official of the Trinity Baptist church at Marion, a bank director, a building and loan director, also director of a half dozen of the big enterprises of Marion of funds. He then entered the newspaper work, and was successful to such an extent that in 1884 he became owner of the Marion Star, which newspaper is, however, now corporate, 25 per cent of the stock being owned by employees.
